

New York State Berry Growers Association Winter Regional Workshops

As dramatic weather events increase, pest pressure intensifies, and local markets vitalize, New York berry growers are looking for ways to protect their crop and lengthen their season. Growers and educators are trialling techniques for growing berries under cover. These day-long workshop will feature multiple short presentations, interactive activities, and words from growers discussing the newest research in tunnels and exclusion netting. The price for the workshop is only $25 for NYSBGA members and $50 for Non-Members. DEC Credits will be available. The workshops are offered in the following locations:
